

Clinical Diagnostics (LC/MS) – R&D Manager

Greater Boston

Superb opportunity to join a market leading instrumentation R&D team.

Our client is seeking a mass spectrometry expert to lead the development of a new diagnostic testing solution. You will contribute in projects from conception through to commercialization, collaborating with world-class Scientists & Engineers.

You will need an instrument-related background with multiple years of Mass Spectrometry research experience, ideally with knowledge of the clinical toxicology workflow. This is a hands-on role with some management responsibilities. The ability to meet deadlines and the desire to lead/mentor others is essential in this position.
