

Mass Spectrometry Product Manager (PM)

Massachusetts

A leading analytical instrument company is seeking a talented and highly motivated Scientist to manage existing instrumentation in the high-resolution mass spectrometry (LC/MS) market.

The position will involve leading a multifunctional team of scientists and engineers supporting current offerings focused around TOF mass spec detection. He/she will act as the “voice of the customer” in the organization, ensuring market trends and activities are relayed to the design and development team. They will also support the sales & marketing team, advising on pricing and instrumentation demonstrations/exhibitions.

Candidates should have a Chemistry or Science degree and at least 5 years of hands on LC/MS experience. (A thorough understanding of mass spec instrumentation/software is required.) Compensation is flexible depending on experience; starting at $100k annual base salary + bonus. Relocation assistance is available.

This is a highly dynamic, and demanding, role; it requires constant contact / presentation to executive leadership teams and Key Opinion Leaders. Please apply only if you are extremely organized, driven, and able to travel (sometimes internationally) approximately 20-30%.
